Private Services to Be Held First at the Little Church Around the Corner-Mes-sa-es of Condolence Becelved by Mrs. Grossman from Friends and Strangers. Funeral services over the body of Edwin Booth will be held to-morrow morning, at 0% o clock, in the Church of the Transfiguration. the Little Church Around the Corner. They will be conducted by Bishop Potter, assisted by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Houghton, and the tley, C. W. Bispham, a relative of William Bispham, one of the closest friends of the dead actor, and one of the six persons who were by the bedside when Mr. Booth died. The services will be private; that is, the public will not be admitted, but the church will be well filled with the friends and associates of the dead man. Admission will be only by ticket. The service will be the regular ceremony of the Episcopal Church.

Mr. Booth's body lay yesterday in a heavy oak box in the room where he passed his last iliness. A large bunch of roses rested on the box. It had been placed there by Mrs. Grossman, Mr. Booth's only child. An undertaker was sent for immediately after the death. He reached the club house at 4 o'clock. When the body had been put in the box the curtains in the room were drawn tight, and they were not raised again during the day, except for a short time when John A. Walthausen came and took a plaster cast of the face, from which Augustus St. Gaudens will make a head and bust of

Mr. Booth will be buried in a plain light oak coffin. It will have a silver plate, with the inscription: "Edwin Booth. Born Nov. 13, 1833. Died Juno 7, 1893." The directors of the club have issued a request to all members to assemble at the house at bo'clock on Friday morning. The members will form a procession and will march to the church behind the hearse. The pail bearers who have been chosen by Mrs. Grossman are Joseph Jefferson. A. M. Palmer, Charles P. Daly, Parke Godwin, Eastman Johnson. Horace Heward Furness, and William Bispham. The organizations that will be represented at the church in addition to the club will be the Actors' Order of Friendship and the Free Masons. After the services at the church the funeral cortege will proceed to the Grand Central Station in time for the 11 o'clock train for Boston. A special car will convoy Mr. and Mrs. Ignatius Grossman, Mr. and Mrs. William Bispham, Mrs. Grossman's brother and sister, and Mr. Macgonigle.

Boston. A special car will convoy Mr. and Mrs. William Bispham, Mrs. Grossman, Mr. and Mrs. William Bispham, Mrs. Grossman's brother and sister, and Mr. Macgonigle.

There will also be two or three extra cars for the use of the friends who wish to accompany the body to Boston. On the arrival at Boston the body will probably be taken to the Boston residence of Mr. and Mrs. Grossman, and it may be that the coffin will be opened there for a short time to enable a few intimate friends to have a final look at the dead. The interment will be made shortly after 5 o'clock at the Mount Auburn Cemetery in Mr. Booth's plot. There will be no flowers at the funeral except a laurel wreath, which will be placed on the coffin by Mrs. Grossman.

Louis Aldrich delivered a eulogy of Mr. Booth yesterday before the members of Edwin Forrest Lodge of the Actors' Order of Friendship, of which Mr. Booth was a member. A floral pillow was ordered, bearing the inscription: "Good Night, Sweet Prince." The Trustees of the Actors' Fund will hold a special meeting this morning.

Interest was expressed yesterday in regard to the estate Mr. Booth has left and the disposition he has made of it. Mr. William Bispham told The Sun reporter that the will was made last autumn. He is one of three executors. He did not know when the will would be read, and he could not a present give even an approximate estimate of the value of the estate. Among the heirs named in the will are Mrs. Grossman and her two children the children of Junius Brutus Booth, the second hushand of the actress Agnes Booth, and the children of Junius Brutus Booth, the second hushand of the Actress Agnes Booth, and the children of John Sleeper Clarke ef London. Who married Mr. Booth's sister. One of these children is Creston Clarke, now of Daly's Company.

The Hudson River Hospital Investigation

ALBANY, June 7.-The State Commission in Lunacy this afternoon closed its investigation into the management of the affairs of the Hudson River State Hospital at Poughkeepsie Senator Amasa J. Parker, who is President of the Board of Trustees of the hospital, was the only witness, and during his testimony there was a constant cross-fire between him and Commissioner Brown. At the conclusion of the hearing the Commission determined not to make any report at this time, but to embody its findings and recthis time, but to embody its findings and recommendations in its report to the Legislature. The Commission, however, gave out a statement in which it was said that the extravagance and waste which were shown to have obtained in various directions have been stopped, and that under no circumstances can the old order of things return or remain after the first of October. Issue since the last Legislature, in making provision for the dependent insane of the flate, surrounded the dissurgement of the great sum of money then appropriated to that object with such surguards as will effectually preclude any recurrence of the extravagance and wasteful methods which have been revealed by the investigation. vealed by the investigation.

Conference of Straw and Wood Board Manu facturers.

NIAGARA FALLS, June 7.—An important secret meeting of straw board, wood board, and chip board manufacturers was held in the pariors of the Cataract House to-day. Representatives of milis all over the United States, including the American Straw Board Trust and all the large Eastern, Western, and Southern mills, were present. There were conferences of straw board men and wood board men and then there were point meetings. It was relainly evident that efforts were being made to effect a consolidation of interests. Two problems confronted the various oranches of the trade. One to maintain prices in face of an overproduction, and the other what to do with the surplus production.

The capacity of the mills for manufacturing straw and wood board is at least 40 per cent. greater than the consumption of the whole country, and unless the consumption, which Was estimated last year at 500 tons, increases 1) per cent, more than it has in previous 7 years, some of the mills will have to go to the wall. No understanding was reached at the meeting this afternoon, and a late evening session is in progress.

A Policeman on Trial for Clubbing.

Policeman Edward Fitzgerald of the West Forty-seventh street station was on trial beore President Martin, at Police Headquarters Yesterday, charged with clubbing Michael Mellanus, an undertaker's assistant, of 464 West Fifty-first street. Fitzgerald has been indicted by the Grand Jury, and his case will be culed for trial in General bessions on Monday.

Monday.

Lawyer Louis J. Grant appeared for Fitz-gera dyesterday and wanted to have the trial before the Police Board postponed, but Presi-dent Martin refused to grant the motion, and went on. McManus told how Fitzgerald had provided him with his club, and then struck him on the back and over the head, knocking him down. Fitzgerald then arrested him and charged him with disorderly conduct. De-alsion was reserved.

HOME RULE BILL AMENDMENTS. One of Them Passed by the Help of Liberal

London, June 7 .- An important discussion took place to-day in the House of Commons, in which Irish members of both factions took ground against any further rielding to the enemies of Irish home rule. The Hon. St. John Broderick, who was Financial Secretary to the War Office in Lord Salisbury's recent administration, offered an amendment to the Home Rule bill, the object of which was to prevent the Irish legislature from dealing with the question of immigration, and the rights of aliens, and from exercising the right to expel aliens from the country. The debate elicited a curious diversity of opinion, and the Government finally accepted the amendment, Irish Chief Secretary Morley suggesting that it could be met by inserting the word "allens" after "allenage" in subsection 6 of clause 3, which would then, as amended provide that the Irish legislature should not have power to make laws respecting "treason, treason-felony, alienage, aliens, or naturalization."

Mr. St. John Broderick assented to Mr. Morley's suggestion, whereupon Timothy Healy. Nationalist M. P. for North Louth, earnestly protested against the amendment. He said that these petty amendments wasted time. the Government to some extent conniving. The proposed amendment, if adopted, might result in causing great trouble and embar-rassment to the Irish Government. For in-stance the workhouse at Cork was constantly charged with pauper allens from America. With the amendment about allens adopted, the Irish Government could take no steps to abate the evil.

Thomas Sexton, Nationalist M. P. for North
Kerry, expressed his opposition to the proposed amendment being inserted in the clause notice.

Redmond, Parnellite M. P. for East

William Redmond, Parnellite M. P. for East Clare, said that any necessary amendment of the Home Rule bill ought to be done by its framers and not by its would-be destroyers.

The Right Hon. James Lowther, Conservative, said that he agreed with the member from North Louth that the condition of affairs under which pauper aliens poured into Ireland from the United States was monstrous. He (Mr. Lowther) believed that the evil amounted to a bona fide grievance, for the redress of which Ireland had an undoubted claim on the imperial Parliament.

Mr. John C. Rigby, Liberal M. P. for Forfarshire, Scotland, said that the insertion of an amendment would not affect the Home Rule bill to an important extent.

Some of the electrons were addressed to members of the eluctron difference of the elu or freiand, or quarantine or having actor, except as respects inland waters and local health or harbor regulations."

Prime Minister Gladstone opposed the amendment. He admitted that there was a large demand in Ireland for the control of external trade, but, on the other hand, the frish members of Parliament accepted the clause. It was true that Mr. Parnell had once mentioned the prospect of Ireland's adopting the protective policy, but he withdrew that suggestion in accepting the Home Kule bill of 1893. Public opinion in Ireland endorsed his course. (Nationalist cheers.)

The Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain said that, whether desirable or otherwise, it would be the inevitable consequence of home rule that Ireland would control external trade.

Discussion was brought to an end by the closure, and Mr. Courtney's amendment was defeated without a division.

Sir Richard Webster Concludes His Sprech and is Followed by Mr. Robinson.

PARIS, June 7.-Ex-Attorney-General Sir Richard Webster concluded his address before the Behring Sea Tribunal of Arbitration today, in behalf of the British case. Greek Satiors Have Serious Trouble in an Italian Town, TARANTO, June 7 .- A serious riot occurred here to-day between the inhabitants of the city and the sallors of the Greek men-of-war Spara and Spezal, lying at anchor in the harbor. The cause of the conflict was the allega-tion that some of the sailors had violated a Taranto woman. Several persons on both sides were seriously injured in the affray, and no fewer than forty-six arrests were made. Though the Greeks indignantly dony the story of the outrage to the woman, the feeling in the city is one of continued disquietude, as the people of Taranto have threatened to take vengeance on the many Greek residents of the city. bor. THE CHICAGO FLURRY OVER. MANY OF THE SCARED ARE PUTTING THEIR MONEY BACK IN BANK.

Work Will Not Be Stopped at the Grant Locomotive Works-A Number of Coun-try Banks Have to Close Their Doors, CHICAGO, June 7.-Many of the timid savings bank depositors who rushed to withdraw their each from the banks are replacing their money, and the result of their scare is the loss of whatever interest might have accrued on their deposits. At the Bank of Commerce. Globe Savings, and Dime Savings the "run" has ceased entirely. It continued to-day in a mild way at the Illinois Trust, the Union Trust, and the Hibernian Banks. At the Illinois most all depositors were paid in cash in full of all claims, great or little. President

"We have something more than $3,000,000 in cash in the vault, so we'll take care of all claims and pay every one promptly. I think there will be no trace of a run to-morrow." At the Union Trust the crowd was much smaller than on yesterday. All claims of $50 or less were being paid in cash, and for larger sums the statutory potice was demanded. At the Hibernian Bank printed card swere posted notifying depositors that the usual thirty or sixty days' notice would be insisted on in case of all deposits exceeding $50.

Work in the plant of the Grant Locomotive Works will not be interfered with by the assignment. The total liabilities of the company are $410.050. The aggregate assets, as conservatively presented, are $1.151.464. The cause of the failure is said to be that the com-nany had recently invested too heavily in ma-terial. The recent strike of the workmen and of the money market added to the embarrassment.

Wichita, Kan., June 7.—The Laclede and Third National banks of St. Louis and the Bank of Commerce of Kansas City, Mo., yesterday, sued out attachments for $50,000, $25,000, and $50,000 respectively against the Francis Whittaker & Sons packing house. The Sheriff is in possession of the property. Late last evening W. N. Levy, President of the Wichita National Bank, was appointed receiver, with a bond of $100,000, which he gave. A representative of the firm said they did not owe anything in Kansas City.

The plant here is valued at $200,000, most of which was donated to the firm by the city under contract to operate the plant a certain number of years. The firm has done little business for some time on account of the high prices of hogs, and the Board of Trade was preparing to sue them for a breach of contract in falling to run the plant to its full capacity, the contract still being in force.

Bergorn, Ind., June 7.—The community was startled when the Bedford lank did not span its doors yesterized morning. The President, Mr. Winstandler, soon appeared and explained that in consequence of recent heavy withfraw-als of deposits the bank would be forced to suspend for a few days. It is one of the oldest banks of this section.

New Almany, Ind., June 7.—The New Albany Banking Company suspended payment this morning and closed its doors. The suspension was caused by the run made on the Bedford Bank at Bedford, Ind., yesterday, which forced it to close. The principal stockholders in the two banks are T. S. Windslay of this city. W. S. Minneapous, June 7.—A rumor gained circulation to-day that two of the heat-known elevator companies in the Nosthwest, the Northern Pacific and the Red River Valley. Worstemporarily embarrassed, and the subsequent events proved that although the crash is not absolute, the predicament in which these corporations find themselves is a serious one. The situation is attributed to the prevailing uncertainty and the lack of confidence which is felt by the banks.

The increasing the banks, will not warrant the assertion that it is a business failure, although the statement comes direct from the general manager of the Northern Facific Elevator Company that that cornoration will ask for the appointment of a receiver. This means that the lef River Valley Company will do the same, as the capital interested in each is mostly mutual.

The capital stock of the Northern Pacific Elevator Company is held mostly outside of the city, principally in Pullath, George Rupley President of the Northern Pacific Elevator Company, resides in the latter city, and until his arrival to-morrow no statement as to liabilities or assets or the financial difficulties of the companies will be fortheoming. A LIVELY LITTLE FIRE.

Mr. Newcomb's Stable Bestroyed and the Shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon there was a fire in the private stable of H. Victor Newcomb at 108 West Fifty-fourth street, which threatened all the stables in the block between Sixth and Seventh avenues. The stablemen rushed their horses and carriages into the street, and some even took their furniture out. It is not known how the fire started.

Mr. Newcomb's coachman, John Lumsden, and his wife, Agues, occupied apartments over the stable. Lumsden left the stable with a phaeton a short time before the fire began. He had not been gone long when Mrs. Lumsden was alarmed by somebody kicking at her door and shouting that the house was africe. The door was locked, and when she finally got it open she was driven back by the smoke. She ran to the window. There was a crowd of men below, but they did nothing to help her. A man passing with a load of hay was asked to run his load up on the aldewalk, so Mrs. Lumsden could get out. He was afraid of the fire and would not risk it. The amoke was fast filing the room and Mrs. Lumsden could stand it no longer, so she threw herself from the window. She struck on her shoulder and was carried to a neighboring grocery where she was attended by Dr. Louis licestry of 251 West Fifty-fourth street.

There was some delay about sending in an alarm, and the stable was all ablaze when the firemen arrived. The flames had reached the upper story and were reaching out for the Mutual boarding stables, a five-story building adjoining on the cast side. A third alarm was necessary to prevent the flames from spreading. a phaeton a short time before the fire began

The fire was confined to Mr. Newcomb's sta-ble, but that of Mrs. A. R. Van Nest on the west side was considerably damaged by water. Three horses belonging to Mr. Newcomb were suffocated. One was said to be a trotter for which he paid $7,000. The damage was esti-mated at $25,000. Lumsden returned with the phaeton after the fire was over. Mrs. Newcomb and a friend arrived, also, and saw that Mrs. Lumsden was properly cared for. She was in a delicate condition, and the shock may have serious results.

The Present State Officials Will Be Renow! nated, but Without Enthusiasm-Things Said and Done at the Opening Session. Columbus, O., June 7.-The Republican State Convention, which met in the Grand Opera House this afternoon, was a very tame affair. Two years ago when McKinley was nominated at the same place there was unbounded enthusiasm, and there was victory in the air. It was predicted that the defeat of Gov. Campbell would be a very easy and pleasant task; that the great apostle of protection would win in a walk, all of which was verified at the election in November that year. But it is different now. The "Little Napoleon" whose name was praised by every Republican then is not the lion of the party in Ohio now, and many conservative Republicans predict his defeat this fall, some putting the majority against him as high as 20,000. The cause of all this has been his unfortunate appointments and the stand he took in the Senatorial fight a year ago last winter. There have been scandals in the penitentiary under his administration, also in the caught "raising" vouchers or warrants on the State Treasury, and has defrauded the State out of several thousand dollars.

There will be few contests for any of the places on the State ticket to-morrow, and "the old ticket" will probably be nominated from top to bottom, with probably the exception of the Dairy and Food Commis-Governor, William McKinley of Stark; Lieutenant-Governor, Gen. Harris of Freble; Attorney-General, J. K. Richards of Lawrence; State Treasurer. W. T. Cope of Cuyahoga; Judge of Supreme Court, J. P. Bradbury of Meigs; member of Board of l'ubile Works, Frank McColloch of Logan: Dairy and Food Commissioner, F. B. McNeal of Miami.

The Convention met at 2:30 o'clock, and after a prayer, Chairman Pursell of the State Central Committee n ad a humorous speech, addressing the Republican delegates present as 'Fellow Cadavers." He wound up in a burst of eloquence and proclaimed that the great principle of the Republican party, protection. would never die, at which there was loud and long continued applause. Mr. Pursell also said: "In all this time of doubt and darkness, no man will impugn the motives or question the greatness of henjamin Harrison. His administration was all that was pure, patriotic, and great. He retired from office honored and respected." The speaker said that four years would be ample to teach the fallacy of free trade.

There was little affort at decoration in the hall, except the floral design extending the entire length of the stage, on which were the words. "Welcome, Republicans." The seats in the auditorium reserved for the delegates were well filled, but there were vacant chairs on the stage. After Mr. Fursell concluded he introduced the temporary Chairman, Congressman C. H. Grosvener of Athens county, who delivered a 10,000-word speech, much to the disgust of the audience in the theatre, for the heat was opprossive. The speaker was loudly cheered when he announced that hereafter there must be no Sherman men, no Forsker men, but simply Republicans. He spoke a good word for the Legislature, praised Harrison's Administration, and donounced the Democratic Congress. At the close of Gresvener's speech the various committees were appointed and the Convention adjourned until to-morrow.

The situation as to the nominations has been

The situation as to the nominations has been very much changed since last night. At first, when the delegates began to arrive, there was a decided sentiment in favor of kicking up a row in the Convention, and the opposition to Mcainley threatened to crystallize and give the Governor's friends a great deal of trouble. agreement. In the face of the fact that non-adoption means a victious rate war, the passes senger officials wrangled all day, and at the senger officials wrangled all day, and at the disagree. Some of the strongest lines are disagree. Some of the strongest lines are wavering in their belief of Saturday and Monday that the revised agreement would surely be adopted in the end.

They are as much in favor of it as ever, but the cheek passes and so divide the vote as to prevent a choice on the first ballot. This would have office on the first ballot. This would have officed in the end.

It is now a question of the revised agreement on any vote of record.

It is now a question of the revised agreement on one, as the reads will fail over each other in following the example of the Illinois Central in withdrawing from the present as adopted.

FEATHERSIONE'S TERRIBLE FIST.

Broke Greer Martung's Jaw in Two Places with a Stugle Blow, John Featherstone, 55 years old, of 423 West Forty-third street, a car driver on the Ninth avenue surface line, walked into William Hartung's grocery store at 500 Eleventh avenue on Tuesday night and demanded a loan of 50 cents from the proprietor. Hartung, who had accommodated Featherstone in the past. and had never been able to get back any of the money advanced, refused the car driver's request. Featherstone, when he received the denial, planted his great, herny fist full on Hartung's chin. The blow fractured Hartung's jaw on both sides. Featherstone was arrested and Hartung was removed to Roosewelt Hospital. The surgeons had great difficulty in setting the fractures, and ther are now considering the advisability of wiring the broken parts together, in order to hold them in place. If the wiring is done it will be necessary to drill holes through the bone first.

In the Yorkville Police Court yesterday Featherstone was held in $1,500 bail to answer. money advanced, refused the car driver's re-

Suit Against Father Yodyszus Dismissed. When Justice Bartlett, in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, yesterday called the case of the trustees of St. George's R. C. Church against the Rev. Father Yodyszus to recover the church property, the trustees failed to respond, and the suit was dismissed. "The trouble is all over." said Father Yodysgus to a Sun reporter afterward. "I have been to see Bishop McDonnell several times, and when I get the money which I laid out when the church was under the hammer. I will give back the property to the congregation and the trustees. This, with interest, amounts now to about $8,000. But I have made a will. Should I die now all this property in my name will go to the congregation, even my own personal effects. I have nobody in the world to give anything to, and I love my congregation. I often visit the lishop, and everything has been harmonious in the church a long time."

TO INVESTIGATE THE SLAVE TRADE. Stanley's Lieutenant, E. J. Clave, Will Ge

E. J. Glave, who has just started for Africa to investigate the slave trade for the Century knows perhaps as well as any man save Stanloy himself the Arabs whose business it is to catch slaves and steal ivory on the Congo. Glave was six years in Africa with Stanley, and, unlike some other of Stanley's lieutenants, he came back to civilization still firm in his alleginnee to his leader. He has taken no part in has written much upon the subject of the explorations. Glave was very young when he first went to Africa in Stanley's employment. He returned to London after some time spent on the Congo laid up with a swollen spleen. Those who have travelled in Africa think they have discovered the use of that puzzling organ, and believe that its sole function is to make its owner thoroughly uncomfortable, without nature. Glave's spleen shrunk to normal size during his days of recreation in London, and he shipped again for the interior of Africa. He had already crossed the continent with Stanley, and he now joined the Emin relief expedition. Stanley dropped the young man with insane asylum here; and now his inspector of a few black Zanzibaris on the edge of a savage negro village, 200 miles from any other white man. Glave built himself a little home, established liveable relations with the savages, and dwelt there iwenty menths. He already knew a good deal of savage African speech, and here he added to his linguistle attainments. He studied the natives in their savage state and hunted big game to his hearts content. Being an observant young man with a larger fund of humor finas Providence usually allows to men of British birth. Glave brought out of Africa and that lonely year and a half among savages a fund of delightful ancelotes and a remarkable acquaintance with the ways of the negro. He learned to sing a cannibal song in a way to make your hair stand on end, and his stories off-domestic life are uncommonly droll.

On coming out of Africa Glave visited the United States, and soon found himself welcome among all sorts of people and his manuscript sought by the publishers of newspapers and magazines. He joined an exploring company sent to Alaska by a weekly illustrated newspaper, and was so plassed with the country that he made a second expedition on his own account. With a single white companion and a few Indian guides he penetrated far into the interior, and he was the first man to take horses beyond the Alaskan mountains. Naval officers who know the Alaskan coast have sometimes sneered at Glave's pretence to have taken horses into the interior, but he has photographe to show for it, and he did what beems it ordinary folks an even more remarkable thing in teaching his horses to walk upon snow shoes. They were painfully awkward at it for a time, but they eventually became skilful and fearless snew shoers. Glave saw many interesting things in Alaska, and came back to write upon the subject. After his last return from that country he attempted a discouraging course of lectures in Canada. For the Past six months, however, he has been living in New York and writing for several publications. His new quest is most important, and it may bring him into heatile contact with some of Tipu Tib's adherents, a thing that no man a Glave built himself a little home, established liveable relations with the savages, and country cares to encounter.

NOTES OF CENTRAL PARK.

About Its Animals and Various Happenings of the Last Three Months.

From the last published quarterly report of the Park Department it appears that there were born in Central Park during the quarter four raccoons, two red doer, one sik, one fallow deer, one axis deer, one zebu, and two hyenns. The four raccoons were born on the same day. There were a number of donations to the menagerie from people in New York. A number of alligators have recently been presented to the menagerie. Six persons have each contributed one or two alligators. One woman gave thirteen canary birds. Red foxes are the most popular glifts next to alligators. One man gave three Brazilian sheep-goats. Less Wages if the Tariff Is Changed. PITTYBURGH, June 7.-At to-day's meeting of the Tin Plate Manufacturers' Association a plan of proceeding, in conferences with the workmen organized in the Amaigamated Association, was agreed upon. It is understood that the tin plate men will not sak their employees to accept reduced wages, but will resist the demand tor an advance, which is to be made. Secretary John Jarrett said the manufacturers would insist on the insertion of a clause releasing them from the contract if the Democratic Congress reduces tariff schedules. It is said to be probable that a similar clause will be required by all iron and steel manufacturors.

BROKEN AT THE CAPITAL.

and What They Do.

THIS IS REALLY THE CONDITION OF

MANY PUBLIC MEN. Why So Many of Them Brenk Down-Most Interesting Interviews With Prominent Officials, Showing Why They Give Way

"Suffering from nervous prostration!" That was the information given to my inquiry yesterday as to why a certain Treasury official was shount from his office. The gentleman would not be down that day I was told. He was unable to attend to business, and the cause was explained by the remark above quoted. I had heard this phrase used several times during the day, and its repetition aroused my curiosity. There has been a great deal of talk recently about the dangerous efment employees are sufferers, and this frequently recurring statement seemed to prove it. I finally visited several of the departments for the purpose of interviewing certain prominent neopie who are well qualified to give an opinion on this most important topic. Among those who were seen were the following:

Andrew I. Drummond, Chief of the United States Secret Service Department of the Treasury, said: "I never use liquor nor tobacco, but suffer greatly from headaches and nor-vousness. My doctor ordered me to do less right work. I was finally induced to try Paine's celery compound, which was the first remedy from which I obtained any relief. I was simply astonished at its effect. Since using it the headaches have kept at a respectful distance."

Capt. Hall, the veteran Assistant Doorkeeper of the U. S. Senate, expressed his orinion in these words: "I have been a great sufferer from sleeplessness, and to such an extent that I could not get more than an hour's rest nightly. Finally I was persuaded to try that splendid remedy, Paine's celery compound, and it made me sleep soundly. For that reson. I am recommending it daily to my friends."

As further evidence of the wonderful popument employees are sufferers, and this frereason I am recommending it daily to my friends."

As further evidence of the wonderful popularity sitained by the remedy above named it may be stated that a number of well-known people informed me that it had been strongly recommended to them, and that they intended to try it as a means of obtaining relief from the effects of overwork and nervous allments. Among these were Hon. F. C. Layton and Hon. John A. Candwell (Ohio, Hon. Samuel Fowler and Hon. Thomas D. English (New Jersey), Hon. John L. Bretz (Ind.), Eugene B. Daskam, Chief of Division of Public Moneys, and David Wolfe Brown, Official Reporter of House of Debates.—Adv.
